Introduction

You, as parents, are the most important and influential people in your children's lives. You are interested and involved in every aspect of their development, their activities, their academic progress, and in the planning of their futures. Your sons and daughters also need you to take an active interest in preparing for their next transition in life.

This Scholarship Handbook will hopefully provide all of you with the basic information you will need to help you review and select the appropriate local, state or national scholarships for your son/daughter to apply to. We are also providing you with the opportunity to briefly review the financial aid opportunities from the major sources of financial aid.

This is the best listing that we can provide for you at this time. This handbook is not designed to provide all of the answers to all questions in regards to the scholarship process or to address the needs of all students for answers to individual questions. It is important to keep in mind that this process often changes from year to year, and many previously existent scholarships may be discontinued and new ones may be added. Please stay in close contact with the guidance department in regards to any questions you may have. We are here to assist you!

Also, as soon as acceptance letters and financial aid award packages come to your attention, please provide copies to guidance. Ms. Lemoine needs these letters to assist you and also to provide input to scholarship committees. We will not be able to advocate on your behalf if we do not have these documents on file.

Financial Aid

What is financial aid? Basically, financial aid is funding obtained from an outside source to assist a student in paying for his/her post secondary education. There are two different categories of financial aid: need-based and non-need or merit-based aid. Within each of these categories there are different types of aid. These include grants or scholarships which do not need to be repaid, loans which need to be repaid, and a variety of work/study programs.

Financial aid does not just happen. You have to make it happen. During the next few months you will need to:

- Research sources of aid
- Complete applications
- Write essays
- Meet many deadlines!

There will be disappointments as well as successes. The important thing to remember is DO NOT BECOME DISCOURAGED. This handbook is a tool for you to use to assist you toward success.

College financial aid packages may include a combination of scholarships, grants, loans (student and parent), and work study programs.

Federal Programs

This year you will be able to start this process on October 1. The process begins with the filing of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) for federal programs at all colleges. Most financial aid is awarded through this program and is based on financial need and information contained on your income tax return. A federal formula is then used to determine your Expected Family Contribution (EFC). The difference between the cost of college and the EFC becomes your “financial need.” Financial need is the difference between what it costs to attend college and what you and your family can afford. Because school costs vary, you may qualify for different amounts of aid at different schools. Do not let the cost of a school deter you from applying!

Cost of Attendance minus EFC = Financial Need

Cost of Attendance	EFC	Financial Need
Tuition & Fees Books & Supplies Room & Board Transportation Personal Expenses (Each school calculates this cost. It is stated in the financial aid award letter.)	Based on income and assets of a student and his/her family. (Federal government determines this amount using information from FAFSA. It is the same amount regardless of the cost of a school.)	Students can receive up to this amount of need-based financial aid with grants and loans. (Based on the FAFSA and other documents, each school develops a financial aid package for each student.)

The FAFSA must be filed in order to qualify for the following programs:

Pell Grants are determined by a standard formula. The amount of the award is based on the Expected Family Contribution (EFC) and cost of education.

Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG) are based on need and availability of funds.

Federal Work Study provides jobs for students to earn money to help pay for their education. The amount of this award is based on need and availability of funds. Students must report to the financial aid office at their college and seek out opportunities, apply, and be granted a position. Then the college will pay the student with a check in his/her name that can either be applied to the balance or be used to pay for living expenses.

Student Loans are based on need. Payments begin six months after you graduate or leave college. There are two types of student loans.

Perkins Loans: Through government funds, the college is the lender. Students pay no interest while enrolled at least half time and must begin repaying their loan nine months after graduating, leaving school or enrolling less than half time.

Stafford Student Loans: These are available through the Federal Direct Loan Program and the Federal Family Education Loan Program. These low interest loans are made by a lender such as a bank or directly through the federal government and may be subsidized or unsubsidized. Subsidized loans are awarded on the basis of financial need, and the federal government pays the interest while you are in school and during the first six months after you graduate, leave or enroll less than half time. An unsubsidized loan accrues interest from the time the loan is disbursed.

PLUS Loans are loans to parents with good credit history. Parents may borrow up to the total cost of their dependent student's education.

Additional Aid

CSS Financial Aid Profile form is required by some private/independent colleges and universities when applying for their nonfederal student aid funds. The Profile must be completed in addition to the FAFSA. Registration and Application Guides are online at www.collegeboard.org. Check appropriate colleges/universities for deadline dates. You only need to complete this form if the schools that your son or daughter have applied to are on the list. There is a substantial registration fee for each school that you sign up for so only do the ones that are required.

College Based Aid is one of the best sources of financial aid. The first step is to indicate on the college application that you wish to apply for financial aid. College aid can be based on financial need, scholastic achievement, or membership in a particular group. Colleges also use the FAFSA and/or the Profile as the basis for their need-based scholarships. All inquiries and applications for financial aid must be addressed to the Financial Aid Office of the individual campus. Also, you may write a letter to the financial aid office to address any special financial circumstances (loss of income, grandparent living in your home, etc.).

Local Source Aid is provided by many businesses and organizations that offer scholarships to children of their employees or members. Ask your parents to inquire if any scholarships are available from their employer or from the unions and organizations to which they belong. Also, this handbook has been provided to you to assist you in selecting the scholarship applications you would want to fill out.

How Scholarships Affect Your Financial Aid Package

Private scholarships can actually reduce parts of your financial aid package. How? Colleges must consider outside scholarships as a student's financial resource, available to pay for education costs. If a college financial aid office meets your full financial need, government regulations specify that any scholarship money you win lowers your need figure on a dollar-for-dollar basis.

What should matter to you is which types of your aid are reduced or eliminated – self-help aid (loans or work-study) or need-based grants. Colleges, following federal regulations, can adjust your aid package in a variety of ways – some will subtract the value of unmet need first, others will reduce self-help aid before reducing grants, still others will use scholarship funds only to replace grant money. Some schools even give you the option of using scholarships to reduce your expected family contribution (EFC).

It's a good idea to contact the financial aid office of schools that interest you and inquire about their policies regarding outside scholarships.

Application Tips

The scholarship application process is very similar to the college application process. First, you filter a large list of possible choices into a focused list that matches you. Then you put together application packages that are supported by your achievements, essays, recommendations, and transcript. The more time you can put into filling out scholarship applications, the more options you'll have. What works for one applicant may not necessarily work for another. You'll discover that most of the scholarship secrets you'll read about boil down to using your common sense and following directions carefully.

- ❖ GET FRIENDLY! Get friendly with your own community. It is one of the biggest sources of scholarships that you are more likely to receive.
- ❖ QUALITY! Choose quality over quantity. You'll need to prioritize which scholarships to apply for. Apply to the scholarships that best fit your strengths, interests and qualifications. Brag a little about yourself.
- ❖ TIME! Give yourself enough time to fill out your application and organize the supporting documentation. Use a planner to document due dates so you don't miss any opportunities. Be mindful of deadlines! Consider using certified mail or return receipt, if needed.
- ❖ READ! Read eligibility requirements and instructions carefully. All scholarship sponsors have different selection criteria. One works for one application may not work for another. And if you have a question about your eligibility for a particular scholarship, contact the guidance office or the scholarship sponsor itself.
- ❖ PROOFREAD! Use your computer's spelling and grammar check features. Have a parent, teacher or friend read your essays. (See section on essay tips.) It is very important to not make mistakes. No matter how strong of an applicant you are, it would be difficult for a scholarship judge to overlook spelling or grammatical errors. Don't forget to sign and date your application.
- ❖ DON'T LEAVE BLANKS! Contact scholarship sponsors if you aren't sure how to fill out any part of the application. If the question does not apply to you, write N/A (not applicable) in the blank.
- ❖ WRITE LEGIBLY! Type or print your application forms and essays. Don't cross out! Redo it!
- ❖ ASK YOUR PARENTS FOR HELP! They can help you find scholarships, keep track of deadlines and give you feedback on your applications and essays.
- ❖ MAKE COPIES! Make a copy of each application and supporting documentation just in case a question arises from the scholarship sponsor.
- ❖ Don't assume you won't get anything. Take the time to fill them out – you'll never know unless you try.

The Scholarship Essay

Answer the essay question! There's a reason why the scholarship organizations provide the essay questions. They want to know your answer. An essay can be very well written, but if it doesn't answer the question asked, then it's not going to win.

Follow the directions set forth! Does it ask for a doubled spaced one page essay? If so, don't write a single spaced three page paper! Don't include unnecessary information just to fill the page.

Keep it neat! Type and proofread your essay. Ask you parent, teacher or friend to reread it. Remember to include your name!

The following is an example of an essay outline:

1. Introductory Sentence
 - a. State your name
 - b. State the name of the scholarship for which you are applying
2. Educational Objectives and Career Goals
 - a. Identify your major
 - b. Why did you choose this major?
 - c. What will you do with a degree in this field?
 - d. What career path have you chosen?
3. Brief Background
 - a. Who are you?
 - b. How did you get to where you are today?
 - c. What is important to you?
 - i. Insert extra-curricular interests, volunteer work, hobbies – things that make you stand out or are unusual.
 - ii. Academic accomplishments – GPA, level of difficulty of courses taken, types of courses taken, etc.
4. Need
 - a. Why do need a scholarship?
 - b. How will it make a difference to you?
5. Conclusion
 - a. Wrap it up with a simple sentence or two. You can include how your education to date has made a difference to you. End with a "thank you for allowing me the opportunity to apply."

Remember, the idea of the essay is for you to communicate to the reviewers your needs, accomplishments, goals, etc. The reviewers should read your essay and feel as if they know you personally. Keep your essay conversational!

Receiving a Scholarship

Scholarships are handed out at either Class Day or Graduation ceremonies. If you are the recipient of a scholarship or scholarships, you will be called to the podium to receive an envelope. Sometimes you will actually receive a check but most likely you will receive a letter from the organization congratulating you and instructing you how to obtain your award. This is one example of the type of award letter you may receive:

June 2020

Dear Recipient:

Congratulations! You have been awarded a scholarship of (amount of award) provided by (name of organization sponsoring the scholarship) to help ease the financial burden of your college education.

This scholarship will be paid directly to you when you complete (proof of completing one full semester of college and, proof of enrollment for the second semester) and collect the money before (deadline date) from (name and address of where to pick up money).

Your note of thanks should be sent to (name and address).

Our best wishes for your success in college.

Sincerely,

Scholarship Sponsor

It is important that you follow through with the instructions that you are given to collect your money. It has been our experience that sometimes students do not take these simple steps and they lose out on some well-earned, free money!

Sample Thank You Letter

It means a great deal to the organization to know that you appreciate their hard work in providing you with a scholarship. This is an example of a thank you letter you would send to a scholarship sponsor. Feel free to adjust the letter as you see fit.

Caution!

The Federal Trade Commission warns students/parents to be wary of fraudulent search services. Unscrupulous companies guarantee or promise scholarships or grants. Some guarantee scholarships in exchange for an advance fee; some offer a “money back guarantee” but attach conditions that make it impossible to get the refund; and still others say you have been selected as a “finalist” for awards that require an up-front fee. Don’t be fooled by an “official sounding” name. Just because a company uses words like “national,” “federal,” “foundation” or “administration” in its title doesn’t mean it is a legitimate operation.

Look and listen for these warning signs:

- The scholarship is guaranteed or your money back.
- You cannot get this information anywhere else.
- The scholarship service needs your credit card or bank account number to hold this scholarship.
- The scholarship will cost some money.
- You have been selected by a national foundation to receive a scholarship.
- You’re a finalist in a contest you never entered. Beware of unsolicited scholarships. If you never applied, it is most likely a scam.
- If you are suspicious of an offer, it is usually with good reason.
- The scholarship service will do all the work.
- You are invited to a free seminar (or interview) with a trained financial aid consultant who will show you how to make yourself more eligible.

Scholarship Criteria

The following pages indicate some of the scholarships that are available to you. Some scholarships require no applications, others have paper applications and some are only submitted online. Further information will be provided when the scholarships become available. Again, please keep in mind that this listing may change. Take advantage of all available scholarships that are applicable to you. You need to apply in order to be considered and, hopefully, granted a scholarship!

The scholarship selection process varies. The sponsors of most of the scholarships that are available to you are selected by their own scholarship selection committee. Other scholarships are reviewed by the GMHS Scholarship Selection committee. This scholarship committee follows the criteria put forth by the organization that is funding the scholarship. We also take into consideration the following: the cost of the college you will be attending and your unmet need based on the financial aid award package that you will receive from the college.

Please read each application that you request carefully, follow the directions set by each one, and be mindful of deadlines! Don't hesitate to ask guidance with any questions you may have – we are here to assist you!
